

The importance of a protective glass

QUESTION: Should I order a monitor with or without protective glass?

ANSWER: Monitors with protective glass reflect ambient light from the much more than those without a glass pane. Protective glass also adds a lot veiling glare to the image, which reduces the contrast of small objects, and it tends to reduce the overall luminance of the display. We recommend protective glass for monitors operated in germ-free environments in which disinfection agents must be used frequently.